Ferrari 550 Maranello

- 1997 Ferrari 550 Maranello with naturally aspirated 5,474 cc V12 engine and 6-speed manual transmission
- Formerly owned by Ferrari Deutschland, with an exceptional and documented ownership history
- Elegant Argento Nürburgring exterior combined with a black leather interior
- Guaranteed mileage of 52,072 km, supported by a Belgian Car-Pass and extensive maintenance documentation
- Extensive maintenance carried out by a Ferrari specialist, including replacement of the timing belts

The Ferrari 550 Maranello is one of the most highly regarded twelve-cylinder grand tourers in Ferrari's modern history. Unveiled at the Nürburgring in 1996, it marked an important return to Ferrari's traditional configuration, combining a front-mounted V12 engine with rear-wheel drive. Ferrari thereby revived a philosophy that had been set aside since the legendary 365 GTB/4 Daytona.

The 550 Maranello succeeded the Ferrari 512 M, the final evolution of Ferrari's mid-engined twelve-cylinder models. Thanks to its powerful naturally aspirated V12 engine, elegant Pininfarina-designed bodywork and outstanding driving characteristics, the 550 Maranello quickly established itself as a highly successful grand tourer. In 2002, it was succeeded by the Ferrari 575M Maranello.

This example was first registered on 28 February 1997 and is finished in the particularly elegant Argento Nürburgring, combined with a black leather interior. Beneath its long bonnet sits the naturally aspirated 5,474 cc V12 engine, paired with a 6-speed manual transmission. The guaranteed mileage is just 52,072 km. The chassis number is ZFFZR49B000107284.

Exceptional Provenance – Formerly Owned by Ferrari Deutschland

One of the most interesting aspects of this Ferrari 550 Maranello is its remarkable ownership history.

According to the available historical documentation, the car was delivered on 28 February 1997 by Ferrari Deutschland to Ferrari Deutschland itself. The German Ferrari importer was therefore the first owner of this example.

Given this unusual arrangement, it is likely that the car was originally used for promotional purposes or as a demonstration vehicle within Ferrari's German network.

This provenance represents an important part of the car's history and distinguishes it from other examples available on the market.

In 2013, the car was purchased from Ferrari Spa Francorchamps by its next owner. He was a passionate collector with an impressive collection that included a Ferrari 250 GT SWB, an AC Cobra and a Porsche 935 K3.

He was also an experienced racing driver who had participated in the prestigious 24 Hours of Le Mans no fewer than three times.

The collector retained this Ferrari 550 Maranello until 2018, when it became part of the following owner's collection.

This remarkable succession of owners, combined with its original registration in the name of Ferrari Deutschland, gives the vehicle a particularly interesting and exceptional background.

Extensive Documentation and Mileage History

Another major advantage of this Ferrari is the extensive documentation supporting its mileage history.

The car comes with a Ferrari documentation folder containing several accompanying booklets and a completed and stamped service book. According to the historical information available, the original service book was lost, and a duplicate was issued in 2013 by Ferrari Spa Francorchamps.

The vehicle also comes with a Belgian Car-Pass and an extensive file of maintenance invoices.

The successive mileage records dating back to 2001 show a consistent progression and support the guaranteed mileage of 52,072 km.

With its low mileage, exceptional provenance and comprehensive documentation, this example represents a particularly attractive opportunity for collectors who value the history and authenticity of their Ferrari.

Condition and Maintenance

The car is in good, original and unrestored condition. The bodywork is original and presents particularly well. The paintwork retains its original Argento Nürburgring colour and presents beautifully, with normal signs of use consistent with the vehicle's age.

The original black leather interior is well preserved and shows normal signs of use. The underside is also in good, honest and original condition.

The engine is in good, honest condition, while the engine bay is particularly well maintained and remains in excellent original condition.

According to the available maintenance history, this Ferrari has undergone extensive work carried out by a Ferrari specialist, including replacement of the timing belts.

The tyres have good tread depth, although their age limits their suitability for further use.

The clutch and 6-speed manual transmission operate perfectly. The brakes, electrical system, lighting and suspension are also in good working order.

A Particularly Interesting Ferrari for Collectors

The Ferrari 550 Maranello has gained increasing recognition in recent years as an important modern classic within the Ferrari range.

Examples featuring a manual transmission, low mileage, interesting ownership history and extensive documentation are particularly sought after by collectors.

This Ferrari stands out thanks to its original delivery to Ferrari Deutschland, remarkable collector ownership history, elegant colour combination and extensive documentation.

Furthermore, this example will reach its 30th anniversary on 28 February 2027. From that date, subject to the applicable requirements, the vehicle may qualify for classic car status in Belgium and the associated tax benefits.

In Flanders, vehicles aged 30 years or more are subject to a specific flat-rate classic car taxation system. With a Belgian O-plate and the required registration, the vehicle may also benefit from the applicable regulations for Flemish Low Emission Zones (LEZ), depending on the conditions in force.
